New Addition to Provide Double Space for Hospital; Will Break Ground in Month, Monsignor Announces

A contract for the $1,725,891 addition to the Benedictine Hospital has been awarded to Vermilye-Brown Co., Inc., of New York, low bidder, and ground will be broken within a month, the hospital board announced today.

The addition will double the bed capacity of the hospital and will include a new X-ray department, new pediatric and obstetrical departments, four new operating rooms, new pharmacy, kitchen and nurses' cafeteria along with other improvements for personnel.

A new central heating plant will heat the building and supply the high pressure steam necessary for sterilizers.

The date on which the work will start will be announced in about two weeks, Msgr. Martin J. Drury, president of the hospital board, said today. The extension will be built on the west end of the present structure, opposite the present wing.

Msgr. Drury said the entire cost of construction and equipment will be $1,725,891, and with the money the hospital has on hand, together with the money made available by the Joint Hospital Survey and Planning Commission, it means that the hospital will have to carry debts of approximately $450,000.

Hospital authorities "realize that this is a staggering debt to assume, but the demand for pub-

Dr. Alice Divine Dies in Ellenville

Helped Many as Doctor; Was Prominent Leader of Republicans

Ellenville, June 29—Dr. Alice Divine, a pioneer woman physician in this area and for more than 40 years and up to her retirement about three years ago, a widely known practicing physician in Ellenville and vicinity, died Wednesday morning at Veterans Memorial Hospital. Dr. Divine had been in failing health for the past year and a week ago was taken to the hospital where she had been in a coma for several days past.

Dr. Divine was a daughter of the late Major Dwight and Millecent Hatch Divine and was born in Ellenville January 20, 1888. She was graduated from the old Ellenville Academy and later attended Wyoming Seminary and received her degree of M.D. from Cornell Medical School.

During her long career as a physician she was noted for the keen interest she took in the welfare of her patients and for her many unobtrusive benefactions. A staunch Republican, Dr. Divine was and had been for many years vice-chairman of the Ulster County Republican Central Committee. She was a member of

Land, Water Borings Completed Officially

William K. Haggithom, secretary of the New York State Bridge Authority, said today that all river and land boring for the proposed bridge over the Hudson three miles north of the city have been completed.

A report earlier this week indicated that the Giles Drilling Co., of New York, had completed the work, but no official announcement was made at the time. The company had been on the site for about 30 days. A report on the results of the boring will not be made for several days.

Labor Unit Okays Hanley on Record

State Officials Keep Sharp Eye On Fireworks Use

Use of Pistols, They Hope, Will Not Lead Others to Violations of 10-Year Ban

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (UPI)—Law enforcement officials in New York state have their fingers crossed that the Fourth of July won't explode in a burst of illegal use of fireworks.

They are hopeful that an amendment permitting use of cap pistols this year will not lead to a weakening of what they consider "excellent observance" of the state's 10-year-old ban on fireworks. They say there has been no general violation of the ban in that period.

But, they add, it's too early yet to tell whether revivals of the cap pistol will produce a trend of increased fireworks violations.

State Police point out that caps already have been responsible for the loss of one boy's life.

Deputy Superintendent George M. Scarle said today that a 12-year-old Orange county boy died June 21 as a result of playing with caps. The boy, Scarle said, was hammering caps on a discarded gasoline tank from which the cover was missing.

Gas Fumes Ignited

Scarle said sparks from the exploding caps ignited gas fumes and caused an explosion. The boy died a day later.

Scarle said the cap pistols themselves are not so bad—except for the noise bothering some people.

It's other methods of exploding the caps that present potential danger he feels.

Referring to the fireworks ban, Scarle said "our experience has been that the law has been pretty well lived up to by the people."

The hands-off position however, was considered a moral victory for the Republicans. The S.F.L. had endorsed Democratic nominees regularly in previous campaigns.

The S.F.L. has worked in close harmony with the Dewey administration.

Senator Wicks Gets Approval for Lieutenantcy on Ticket

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (UPI)—State Federation of Labor sources say they will welcome the probable nomination of Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley as the Republican candidate for governor.

He has a very good labor record, "We like him," one S.F.L. leader commented.

The federation, it was said, is more concerned with whom the G.O.P. will nominate for lieutenant governor. The labor sources are not enthusiastic at all about some of the mentioned possibilities.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston or Senator Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo apparently would be most acceptable to them at this time.

The federation endorsed Hanley when he first ran for lieutenant governor in the special election of 1942.

His opponent that year, Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell, the Democratic and American Labor party nominee, had no labor record either for or against using troops, it was said.

Both sides have been unable to check the Communist advance.

Hands-off in 1946

In 1946, when Hanley was re-elected on the G.O.P. ticket headed by Governor Dewey, the S.F.L. adopted an official hands-off attitude. That was because the Democratic candidate, U.S. Senator James M. Mead for governor and Albany Mayor Erastus Corning for lieutenant governor, had also favorable labor records.

The hands-off position however, was considered a moral victory for the Republicans. The S.F.L. had endorsed Democratic nominees regularly in previous campaigns.

It's other methods of exploding the caps that present potential danger he feels.

Referring to the fireworks ban, Scarle said "our experience has been that the law has been pretty well lived up to by the people."

He recalled only a few isolated cases of reported violations, where police officers had seized fireworks.

The director of the state's Division of Safety, Thomas W. Ryan, says observance of the fireworks ban has been "excellent."

Still Too Early

He has found "divided opinion" on the wisdom of re-legalizing cap pistols. Ryan believes, however, "it's still too early to tell."

"Permission to use cap pistols will delight the youngsters and probably expose them to no appreciable danger," he said.

But Ryan urges parents to "exercise vigilance" in supervising their children's play to make sure they don't get over-loaded caps or fire their pistols near inflammables.

Louis R. Yaguda, executive director of the New York state Sheriff's Association, says he has received no reports that would indicate an outbreak of

U. S. Commitment Seen, if Troops Are Sent Into Battle

Washington, June 29 (UPI)—President Truman was apparently confronted today with a decision on whether to order American troops as well as combat planes and warships, into the fight to save South Korea from Communist conquest.

A possible further commitment of American forces was indicated by a report from Tokyo saying some U. S. troop units in Japan had been alerted to be ready for action.

The federation is more concerned with whom the G.O.P. will nominate for lieutenant governor. The labor sources are not enthusiastic at all about some of the mentioned possibilities.

Postwar Europe

The following is one of a series of letters from a former resident of this area who has returned to Europe for an extended stay and gives his impressions of postwar Europe as seen through the eyes of a civilian going back to the scenes he knew as a soldier during the war.

Going to college in Europe is quite different from the university life in the States. I know, I've tried several colleges in the U.S.A., but I soon found the Sorbonne, or more properly the Faculte des Lettres of the University of Paris a new glimpse of higher education that I never knew before.

Almost from the first moment you enter the ancient court of the Sorbonne that has not really changed in over 1,200 years, you begin to see the vast difference. You walk along the musty corridors and dimly lit classrooms that were once crowded with people like Voltaire, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, George Clemenceau, Charles Baudelaire—the list is endless. The alumni of the Sorbonne read like a French historical Who's Who. The great and the near great and the not so great through the centuries all passed this way at one time or another. So you feel that you are in the halls of the mighty when you take your seat in one of the old classrooms, where you hear the finest French dictation repeated by world famous scholars.

Academic freedom is a very important feature of the Sorbonne and it has been a tradition for as long as anyone can remember. For that reason in the graduate school where I am enrolled, there is no attendance taken, examination and courses are entirely up to the individual. If you care to take the education it is offered—there is no Dead breathing down your neck with a rule book of requirements. You have your work to do and nobody bothers you doing it. The hours you spend in the dusty bibliothèque or university library are your own affair. You have your research to complete, if you need help, your professors will help you; if you seek them out. If not you arrange your own schedule and study plan.

Your student card admits you freely to any lecture at the Sorbonne, so again you have complete freedom taking in the things that most interest you.

A classroom in the university is again a unique experience. Around you will see a strange collection of students. Near you may be a beautiful model working in one of the Paris fashion houses to earn her student expenses. Next to her maybe a bearded Left Bank poet, who maybe sometimes be a great figure in the literary world. A starving artist sits in the next row comparing notes with an Indo-Chinese girl, who has come all the way from Saigon. Or perhaps there will be a small cluster of ex-G.I. students who fought their way through Europe as soldiers and now they've come back to Europe to study on the small amount the Veteran's Administration pays them to get by. A colored boy from French Africa is behind them checking over his notes for the last lecture. They are all here, from all races, religions, creeds and parts of the world. Few of the students can afford to live as university students do in the States. Many of them live in garrets on the Left Bank on just enough to get by. Then there are the Bohemians who flock to the cafes and have a new philosophy which they claim will remake the world. Over a few sputters, they will tell you their great dreams if you have time to listen. In fact some of the professors are as scantly dressed as some of their own students, for a professor's salary is not great in Europe, and many of them must depend on other sources to make a living like writing books and translating, but a scholar's life is still an envied one and only the chosen few make the grade.

There are only two rules you must observe at the Sorbonne. You cannot smoke and you cannot interrupt. Lectures are as informal as the school itself. You can walk out as many do at any time, but never interrupt the professor's lecture and don't dare smoke. The class might go on for an hour, it might go on for several hours or even a day, there's no telling. If you don't like it nobody forces you to stay, you can walk out.

Paris always was a student's town and it still is. Your student card grants you many privileges. You can get cut rates to theatres, museums and many other places. Even your police card which every permanent resident must have for identity is given at a cut rate to students. Shopkeepers and cafe owners around the Sorbonne realize their customers are not as well-heeled as a banker on a sprig, so they too make liberal concessions. It's not considered uncommon to run up a bill for months and the shopkeeper will only shrug his shoulders and smile with understanding, saying: "What can I do, he's only a poor student."

Parisians can always tell the coming of summer, for that when the students leave in great numbers for the vacation which lasts until October, and they look for the return of the students who fill the Latin Quarter with their laughter and highjinks again as the fall begins to dwindle to early winter. It's like a rebirth every year and Left Bank waits for it like an ormen of Spring again after the hot spell of the lazy summer months.

JOHN W. SWEENEY

Canda, N. H., June 29 (AP) — Dr. Hermann N. Sander today had his medical license back again after still another hurdle blocked his path to full practice.

The New Hampshire Board of Registration in Medicine yesterday restored the license it sus-

However, he must regain membership in the Hillsboro County Medical Society which dropped him when his license was revoked by the state body before he can use the facilities of at least two hospitals.

MODENA

Modena, June 28.—Mrs. Alvina Matthesen, Mrs. George Matthesen and daughter Christine were visitors in New Paltz on Saturday.

Mrs. Samuel Palett and son have returned to Connecticut after spending the past week with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer of Long Island are visiting relatives here.

Robert DuBois, president of the Wallkill Central School Alumni Association, is chairman of the square dance to be held Friday evening, June 30, at the school. Roy Hansen also of Modena, is one of the assisting committee members, and music for dancing will be furnished by the Kentucky Moonshiners.

Many local people attended the graduation exercises held Monday evening in the Wallkill Central School. Members of the graduating class include Shirley Thornton, Elizabeth Wells, Marian DeWitt, Shirley Niedieck and Paul Pedersen of Modena.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burke of Poughkeepsie visited relatives here last week-end.

And if, during the coming decade, America should get into another war, what would it cost?

The last one took $300,000,000 a day! My guess is that World War III would cost a cool half billion dollars.

Who can see an end to the political turmoil in Europe and Asia? I can't. A severe depression or another World War would knock huge holes in the dollar and fixed dollar values.

We have reached a stage in America where we must have a measure of genuine prosperity under our free enterprise system of the dollar is to retain some semblance of integrity. The best economic program for our great country is: a Federal budget with, in reason; a tax rate restoring corporate and individual efficiency and thrift and a sound management of the $250,000,000,000 debt.

Yes, the capitalist in Texas has something. He owns values that will protect him against deflation and inflation. His dollars are invested in things that are indispensable in international standards of living. He would easily buy nothing growing out of fiscal mismanagement.

Can an investor with $500 or $5,000 do as the Texas capitalist has? Sure. On the New York Stock Exchange are listed a hundred different corporation equities that represent the basic standards.

And anybody today who has money to invest should turn to this market. The Texas man is smart. So will every investor be in these strange times who desires protection against the dangerous economic forces present in our national life.

Piecrust: Preheat oven 450°F. Mix together 1 c. sifted flour and 1/2 tsp. salt. Cut 1/2 c. Swift'n'ing into flour until pieces are size of small peas. Sprinkle with 2 or 3 lbs. water, a little at a time. Then lightly, quickly mix into a ball. Let stand at room temperature for 15 minutes. On a lightly floured surface, roll into a circle 1/2" thick. Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

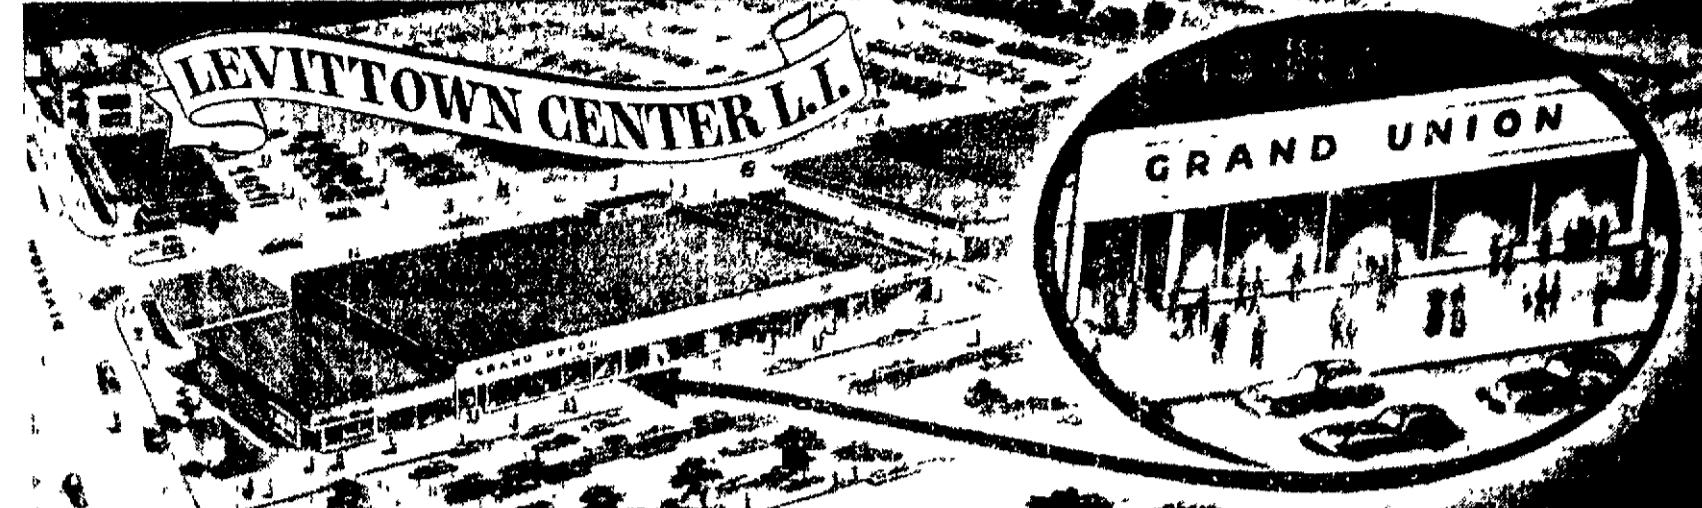

"The Ulster Republican" dated Wednesday, September 28, 1853, published by S. S. Hommel, editor and proprietor, over the bookstore of R. A. Chipp, just opposite the Court House, was sent me by Neal Young of Milton. One of the items reads: "New Invention — Captain Eason of Saugerties has purchased of the R. A. L. Hill the right to manufacture marmos on an expeditious plan, which the latter accidentally discovered while endeavoring to bring out some copies of the litho-type. We are informed that a man can now coat 100 plates in 10 minutes, while the old mode requires some three months. This discovery must reduce the price of marmos very essentially. Capt. Eason is as yet undetermined whether he will dispose of the right or commence the manufacture."

There is also a column of the "Steamboat" Union on her upward trip for New York to Catskill described in the 100-year-old paper. It seems that a week ago this day night the U.S.A. was run into by the steamer "James Grant" from Long Island. The steamer was close to the east shore and the steam bound to New York with a full wind. The bowsprit of the steamer entered the after part of the ladies' cabin, carrying it away and with it young female passenger named Hyatt from Green Bay about 16 years of age.

Not only were newspapers published in those days and of good enough stock to withstand weather and time so that before me is this 100-year-old paper in excellent condition, but a number of magazines I see advertised "Graham's Magazine" about which is written in the October number of "Graham's" fully maintains its previous well earned reputation and will be faded by thousands of readers with pleasure. The merit of Graham's is punctuality, a well filled book with choice illustrations and moral instruction. There are 70 original articles, 116 wood engravings and 116 illustrations in one of "Graham's" "Almanac and Great Events of the Earth" illustrated. It is published by G. R. Graham of Philadelphia and in Saugerties by Bosworth & Son.

The National Magazine Department issue has 22 beautiful illustrations. Its first article "Instructions for Seamen" is well worth reading. There is also "The Life and Times of Johnson" with eight illustrations. It is published at the Method St Book Company, 200 Mulberry St., N.Y. by Cullen & Phillips. Then there is the "Illustrated Magazine of Art" into which has been incorporated "History and Works of the Painters of All Nations." The works of one painter are given in each monthly issue. It is a series and illustrations are of U.S. order. Published in A. Montgomery, 17 Spruce St., N.Y. at 25 cents an issue. I think somewhere I have a copy of this magazine with its fine illustrations on excellent paper.

Would Not Sign Petition
Conger said last night he would not sign his bondholders petition until he had to. He declined.

"I'll never let them sell the railroad down the river. If I sign it, it's because I see no future in the railroad."

It's up to you if I sign the order," he told the approximately 100 shippers and representatives of communities who attended.

Meeting today with Island to Island the committee's action was decided by two trustees, Raymond T. Gifford and Lyman and T. Segaloff, and Presse will preside.

Gifford and Segaloff started the drive to save the railroad. Committees will be formed to handle various phases of the drive.

Local said 15 shippers committed to presenting industries along the O. & W. Railroad's line would work with the railroad's department in an attempt to increase by $2,000,000 a year the rail business.

Would Cut Assessments

Air players committe will try to have tax assessments reduced after the law is added.

Island said the steering committee would be asked to urge Conger and the bondholders to use their influence in appealing to the federal government to have the O. & W. declared a national defense facility.

Conger pointed out that the O. & W. was the shortest route between Erie and New York city.

While we may be growing place here in America, the latest developments on the other side of the world indicate much will be in the brewing. Conger declined.

He said the railroad shipped wood pulp during World War II from Oswego via the St. Lawrence River but shipments were lost in the mouth of the river when ships were torpedoed.

Shipments then were sent on the O. & W. and very heavy red oak logs on the east coast in the judge said.

Shipments are the principal investment of Island.

Sheep and goats are the principal investment of Island.

Mother's face pale . . . her eyes
Mother walks the floor . . . terribly upset
She looks at her
She stares at him
In mother's eye a tear
On father's face a grin . . .
What's the matter . . . Why don't you speak?
Anything wrong . . . Are the children sick?
Mother nods her head
Father answers instead
We are lonesome . . . we are left alone
Our daughter on her honeymoon

Fourteen days since from her we heard
Our dear daughter . . . our little

Flew from home . . . without
To write a line . . . has no time
Parent's love . . . the greatest

Finally forgotten . . . by honey mother's pleasure.
Mother and father feels they are being unable themselves to see
Our gray hair and wrinkled

Make us forget we were young

Our children's actions full of

The durable pleasures life affords are the opportunities of becoming able to be of some use to somebody.

A few sick couple lay stretched out in deck chairs . . . somewhere between life and death. Meanwhile, their young son became more ready by the minute. Finally, the mother mustered voice enough to say . . .

Mother: "Dad, I wish you would speak to Wally."
Father: "Hello, Wally."

Father: "I am now married . . .
And it is my home."
Brother: "It is home."
Father: "Say, it looks much familiar. Are you sure I haven't married you before?"

Doctor: "Have you tried counting sheep to cure your insomnia?" Afflicted: "Gosh gosh, yes. But it only made it worse. The club or restaurant."

Edwin Star: "Nowly married . . .
You admit tearing a hundred of hair from your husband's head?"
Defendant: "I wanted some in put in a jacket."

She: "I read that Apollo was chasing a nymph and she turned into a tree."

He: "Apollo was lucky. Those I chase always turn into a nest."

"My husband's a trotting horse driver—when he can't sleep, he starts driving!"

KISSING THE BRIDE

The bride urgently requests one. Please tell our readers to stop kissing the bride at her wedding. It is an old custom I know but it must have begun before the days of Upset. Now it's now could be messy. Then the smooches on her face and were all too absorbing it.

If a bride is very anxious for a kiss during this custom, she best could easily be over one if everybody would use a clear liquid coating over the lips. This is always done with happiness to the bride.

Junior Not Invited

Dear Mrs. Post: When a friend expects you to visit less, you may mind if we leave. Please do you how to say "excuse me" when it is your fault? I am much and my family is not invited.

Answer: If they have no excuse, with whom to leave him, he can say "Excuse me" without fail. If you do not care to leave him, then say "Excuse me" when he stays so long, even though he is not invited.

Play Suite

In Miss Fest, when you are staying at a hotel, it is not considered very nice to leave him without him. My husband feels that it may keep him longer even when he stays so long, even though he is not invited.

An old saying goes: "If they're going to play the game, words I don't think it's nice to go away from them to leave him. I don't think they should even then away from him with him."

Film on Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it good manners or polite to eat off the table?

Answer: It depends very much upon the occasion. The most unusual situation would be if the person were to sit down at a table with his hands, arms and legs leaning partly or fully on the table, and in this case, in all likelihood they have good excuse.

Given the following stories, say to her, "Please don't do it." Mrs. Post: I am a guest in a hotel, but she has written on the table, "I'm not a guest here." What is the right thing to do? Sincerely yours, Mrs. John P. Doherty, 1000 Franklin Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

joined the Russian in the U.S. in denouncing the second demand of the council resolution regardless of any legal challenge.

Neither delegations nor U.S. officials showed any surprise over the Soviet note to Secretariat General Torgov. The declining the council action invalid.

No Answer Required

This office said no answer to the Soviet note is required from him. He will pass it along to the Security Council.

Ever since the Soviet delegation began its walkout last Friday, June 20, in protest against the presence of Nationalist China in the U.N., the legal issue has been debated.

Before each walkout Russia has announced she will regard as illegal all actions taken while Nationalist China is represented. The U.S. and other delegations have sharply challenged the Russian view. They maintain that U.N. organs are competent to act both with Nationalist China present and with Russia absent.

As for the Security Council, the U.N. charter provides that on all major issues there must be seven affirmative votes for approval with all the five big veto powers concurring.

It has been the accepted practice, however, not to consider abstentions as votes. The charter does not say specifically that all members of even all of the big five must be present.

10 Per Cent of Fires Caused by Electricity

More than 65,000 fires a year, or more than 10 per cent of the national total, are caused by electrical short-circuits, defective appliances and misuse of electricity. Resulting damage exceeds $71,000,000.

A large portion of these fires are caused by short-circuits due to overloaded wires or makeshift wiring installed by home owners in the erroneous belief that they are saving money.

No circuit should have more than 12 outlets and no wiring be installed except by an expert electrician.

Smoke at Hospital

backed up in the hospital's incinerator chimney and apparently issued through a section of brick wall.

Chief Murphy said the building alarm was sounded, and he found on arrival of the firemen that the coordination of employees and nurses "was one hundred per cent."

Everyone performed according to instructions, the chief said, "and I am very proud of their work. There was no excitement on panic."

Some of the accumulated smoke poured from under eaves of rear part of the building and an aerial ladder was raised near the rear emergency entrance as firemen investigated the source of the trouble.

Men and equipment from all plant companies answered the alarm. These included an engine and truck from Central, an engine from Cornell station and a truck from Wallkill. Wicks engine covered at Central station and the department received a call from Chief E. F. Mann of Port Jervis offering to have that company stand by if needed.

Deputy Fire Chief James Brell also responded from Central station.

Chief Murphy made a thorough investigation and said there was no fire or damage. Two lines of hose were laid immediately on arrival of firemen but were not used.

A considerable crowd gathered near the building and most of them stayed until they learned there was no fire.

lie service and welfare makes it imperative," he said.

Public Help Anticipated

The hospital has been encouraged in the past, Msgr. Drury stressed, by the generous cooperation of its many friends and is assuming this tremendous responsibility with confidence, relying on the continued cooperation of these friends, who have so loyally supported it in the past.

The hospital authorities invite "many friends" to attend the breaking of ground, "to join with them in this historic and happy event," Msgr. Drury said.

The planning of this new project has taken many months and even years, since there were many problems and difficulties to be solved," the Monsignor continued. At long last the hospital is ready to go ahead, and the authorities of the hospital once more wish to express to their many friends their very sincere appreciation for all that they have done to help them realize this day."

The New York contracting concern is one with a name in the building of hospitals. It is known for its work on the Medical Center and more recently the Alfred E. Smith addition at St. Vincent's Hospital, and for other similar work.

The court deferred sentencing of writer-produced Samuel Ornitz, and screen writer

Ornitz is to appear in court at 9 a.m. tomorrow while Scott's appearance was put off until after mid-August because the defendant is under medical treatment.

SLICED WATERMELON ON ICE

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 29 (UPI)—Two sharp selling attacks knocked from 1 to around 5 points off stock prices today.

A short but intense selling drive hit the market soon after the opening, but then leveled off and held there for a time.

Soon after mid-session, however, sellers opened up again and numerous issues dipped to their lows for the day.

Trading expanded rapidly when quotations were sliding. Selling orders poured into the exchange so fast that for about half an hour the high speed ticker tape lagged in reporting dealings on the floor.

The decline was linked in some quarters with rumors concerning developments in Korea. Such rumors were considered a normal result of tense nerves created by our intervention in the Korean hostilities.

Today's abrupt plunge was the latest in a series of sensational fluctuations in the market touched off first on Monday by the Korean war.

Among the hardest hit shares were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott Copper, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Standard Oil (N. W. T. GRANT CO aided by the superfort assault, stormed back on the offensive. They were driving back the heavy Red concentration of Soviet-made tanks from the western sector of the capital, it asserted.

The mission also declared fierce fighting was going on at Kimpo north of Seoul, and at Tae-yang, 12 miles west-northwest of Seoul, 12 miles north of Seoul.

Headquarters Is Moved

The southern counter-thrust was going so well, the mission said, that army headquarters was moved back to Shihing between Seoul and Suwon, 20 miles south. Headquarters was moved to Shihing as the Red tanks shattered Seoul's defenders yesterday. As the situation worsened it moved further south to Suwon.

Before the mission issued its encouraging statement, the southern forces were reported in grave condition. So bad that authoritative sources in Tokyo said some American combat troops had been placed on the alert to move into

Korea "at a moment's notice."

So far no U. S. ground combat troops have been sent to the war zone.

Reports—not carried by the Associated Press—that the First Cavalry Division had been ordered to the front from Japan were denied officially. A denial by the division's commander, Maj. Gen. Howard R. Gray, was followed quickly by another by Col. P. M. Edwards, MacArthur's public information officer.

In addition to the B-29s, the U. S. had thrown F-80 Lockheed jet and F-82 twin-jet-fuselage Mustang fighters, and B-26 Douglas Invader light bombers into combat.

Airlifting Supplies

The air force also is airlifting supplies to the South Koreans with a fleet of four-engined C-54s and twin-engined C-46s and C-47s.

The around-the-clock schedule was increased with the arrival of a squadron of C-54s from the Philippines.

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from Suwon, airbase used by U. S. pilots, that one of the four-engined transports was destroyed last night by North Korean Russian-built Yak fighters. This was the second C-54 destroyed on the ground since the Red invasion began Sunday.

At sea, units of the U. S. Navy were on undisclosed missions. The British placed at MacArthur's disposal ships of His Royal Highness' disposal of the Royal Fleet—22 or 23 in all, including the light fleet carrier Triumph. Australia ordered her ships in the area—a destroyer and a frigate (small destroyer)—to support U. S. operations.

The U. S. also has, authoritative sources said, signal corps men in Korea working on communications.

Lambert said the appearance of the superforts quickly caused "a remarkable change" in the attitude of Americans and Koreans at Suwon.

The big bombers blasted an American ammunition dump on the outskirts of Seoul. The concussion carried to Suwon. Soon B-29s soared into view and one U. S. enlisted man exclaimed:

"Oh, brother! Now we're cooking! Let's keep them things up there all day long!"

MacArthur's personal visit to the warfront also was expected to give South Korean troops a big boost.

Russia Condemns

force," the Soviet note concluded.

The council voted 7-4 at Lake Success Tuesday to ask all U. N. member nations to take military action against the Russian-trained forces of the Soviet-sponsored North Korea government.

Those voting for the resolution, in addition to its U. S. proposer, were Britain, France, China, Cuba, Norway and Ecuador. India and Egypt, lacking instructions from their home governments, abstained.

The Soviet reply to the council resolution was strongly reminiscent of the North Korean government's defiant rejection of the Security Council cease-fire order adopted last Sunday. Failure of the cease-fire move resulted in approval of the military measure.

The North Korean regime termed the cease-fire resolution illegal because the Soviet Union and China had not been represented when it was adopted. They objected also that their government had not participated in the discussion.

Yugoslavia, former Russian satellite, cast the only dissenting vote.

The council action gave international endorsement to President Truman's previously announced plan to send U. S. military forces to aid the South Koreans. After passage of the resolution Britain and later Australia announced naval aid would be furnished. U. N. officials have begun canvassing members to determine what forces they can make available.

The Soviet reply to the council resolution was strongly reminiscent of the North Korean govern-

Spring Valley Girl Has Vast Experience Abroad

New York, June 29 (AP)—Four years ago, a 19-year-old American girl left for a tour of Palestine. Yesterday she returned. In the meantime she had: Gotten married, spent a year in an Arab prison and given birth to a baby aboard ship on the way home.

Mrs. Mordechai Ezikowitz, the former Gertrude Sorenson of 46 Lake street, Spring Valley, N. Y., became the mother of a six pound, 12 ounce boy when the liner Lia Gardiner was eight days out from New York enroute from Haifa.

Mrs. Ezikowitz' Romanian-born husband was veteran of the Jewish Brigade. They were captured by the Arabs in the spring of 1948 and were sent to a military prison in Damacus, where they remained until May 2, 1949.

Arab officials offered to free her, Mrs. Ezikowitz said, but she refused to leave without her husband. Finally both were released and he accompanied her home.

JACOBY ON BRIDGETough Hand Proves Expert Is an Expert

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

There are some hands that the average player can play every bit as well as the master, but today's hand is not of that type. The delicate handling given to it by John R. Crawford in a rubber bridge game recently will make it very clear why John is one of my favorite bridge partners.

North should have passed at three notrump. His partner's bidding showed a balanced hand, and North should have realized that his long spades would be just as good at notrump as at spades. Three notrump would have been a cinch, with six spades and three side aces.

When the hand was played, at four spades, West opened the deuce of hearts. East put up the king, and Crawford won with the ace. It was clear that he had to lose a heart and a club. He could therefore afford to lose only one diamond.

The average player would decide to draw trumps and finesse diamonds twice. This would cost him the contract.

Like every true expert, Crawford does not depend on finesses when he can avoid doing so. His method was to lead the king of spades and then a trump to dummy's ace, exhausting the trumps of the opponents. Next he led dummy's remaining heart. When East played low, Crawford finessed his nine of hearts, hoping to force out the queen.

As it happened, West was able to win with the ten of hearts. West then returned the deuce of clubs, hoping his partner would win and would return a diamond. East put up the ten of clubs, and South won with the ace.

Crawford next led the jack of hearts, and West played the queen. Instead of ruffing in the dummy, Crawford discarded dummy's remaining club!

Now there was no way for West to give his partner the lead. When he led a second round of clubs, dummy could ruff. Crawford got back to his hand with a trump to ruff out his last club in the dummy. He was then in position to finesse the diamonds.

It is interesting to see that the contract would have been defeated if East had been able to gain the lead once in clubs. East would have returned a diamond, allowing his partner to win a diamond ace. At this point, West could still get out safely with a club.

He could then wait for his second diamond trick to come to him.

Embarrassed but Happy
Hollywood, June 29 (UPI)—Judy Garland's cut throat has healed completely and she has been told

ATHLETES FOOT GERM

IN ONE HOUR.

If NOT PLENTY of time for back and strength for this STRONG treatment, it PAYS! Lathers, Reach & kill MORE germs faster. Today at McBride's Drug Store, Inc.

the self-inflicted wound was a front page sensation, the little actress' manager reports. Although Miss Garland is embarrassed over the publicity, she is happy that so many people feel sympathetic. Carlton Alspach said yesterday she cut herself last week in despair over her suspension from M-G-M studios.

Faith in American Business, Topic At Rotary Meeting

Play the Roman scholar, noted in A.D. 50 that early residents of the Netherlands profited their homes from the sea with crude mounds.

In part he spoke as follows:

I think if we but look around us we can see that need in our sports our pet ticks, our religious our dealings in local trade and even in greater measure in the tangled webs of business enterprise. And there is one priceless ingredient in the formula for successful business, it is that of an enthusiastic sincere faith in oneself in its management, its policies, its products, not to mention faith and with that vast buying public which is the supporting foundation of all business, faith in the American system of which that business is the crown of liveliness.

Faith is a term that immediately brings many interpretations to mind. For instance there is the faith in our religious beliefs regardless of creed. Then there is that faith in ourselves which makes us confident we are in the right.

Faith is a thing that works miracles. Faith is a foundation upon which we build. Faith is what inspires us to achieve.

I know that there isn't one of you who doesn't feel with the firmest conviction and abiding faith that with the help of the good Lord it was business and business alone, is it eventually shaped its course in this country of ours, along the lines of truly American practices that made us what we are today as a nation of individuals. It is the one thing that has preserved through thick and thin to provide for us that equal opportunity and possibilities of greatness that are unquestioned bulwarks of our society so fortunate as to live and work on American soil. Yes, I know that we have faith in that added freedom which may not have occurred to all of us, and which we enjoy in America as nowhere else in the world—the freedom to fulfilled always with that glorious opportunity to succeed.

But to all of us there come days when the going gets tough when everything seems to go just plain screws when we're feeling low and disengaged when the winds are down, and when not even the best of friends or the wife and kids would look good to us. There is the danger spot. For it is more often by far the easiest thing to blame the whole lousy state of affairs on "those jokers in the home office," those in the seats of government, in the throne rooms of vested capital, or the folly of old timers to do business at all.

What we need then gentlemen is a quick electrifying recharge of our batteries with some good undiluted faith.

We see today men and women who have received a full measure of education from American institutions who have heroic well-known national and international figures solely through the opportunities made possible by the employment and support of American business. We see those same men and women having attained that status, strongly giving out against that same system of business enterprise, seeking to influence others in the substitution of some well-loved creed of something for nothing, spouting from the tangled preachments of some foreign country in which country, of course, they do not wish to live. They isn't glibly about the overthrow of capitalism for the freedom of bondage of common man—but what do they suggest in place of what we now so readily possess? That faith in our hearts should show us clearly that they can find no substitute but chaos and freedom rather a hideous slavery to an ideology without a heart.

Here in America the one thing that marks most emphatically our contrast to dictatorship or communal schemes for living is our right to engage openly in competitive selling. Are we employing that right to the full in selling our faith in freedom to enterprise to those who haven't our own firmness of conviction?

Sheldons Are Guests

Special guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Arthur F. Sheldon and Miss Helen M. Sheldon. President Charles Bach reported that at the recent Rotary International convention in Chicago, Rotarians agreed "the profits most who served best" was memorialized. Mr. Sheldon was the author of the motto.

Attacker Shot

Bellmore, N.Y., June 29 (UPI)—A hitchhiker, released from a mental hospital only last month, slashed a parkway policeman with a knife late yesterday and was shot and killed in the struggle. "I don't like you and I don't like cops," he was quoted as telling Patrolman Dominic P. Rozzi, 28, of Bellmore. The knife wielder was identified as Raymond LaBua, 21, of Last Meadow, N.Y. Rozzi, in a police car, came across LaBua on Southern State Parkway, on which hitching a ride is prohibited. Rozzi was cut deeply on the left arm and scratched on the face.

"Excalibur," outward bound on a Mediterranean cruise, collided with 5,146-ton Colombian inbound from Philadelphia. The "Excalibur's" skipper beached his ship when the crash rammed a hole in her side. There were no injuries and the 114 passengers were taken off the liner without a mishap.

Would Discuss Defense

Lake George, N. Y., June 29 (AP)

The Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation suggested that a regional conference be held on civil defense. In a resolution yesterday, the committee urged that a regional defense program be worked out on the state-local level. The 135 legislators and health department officials attending the three-day meeting were told that the incidence of rabies had doubled in New York state during the last year. Dr. Alexander Zelssig, veterinary consultant to the State Health Department, warned that health cases were appearing in counties that had been free of it.

Drop Romance Angle

Newark, N. J., June 29 (UPI)—

The Essex County Mosquito Extermination Commission tried to lure mosquitoes to a trap with phony mating calls—but the mosquitoes didn't bite. The commission yesterday abandoned a proposed scheme to outfit electric traps with loud-speakers that would buzz sweet nothings in mosquito language. Preliminary tests didn't work, except for a relatively few mosquitoes. It turned out that there are 15 different species of mosquitoes here, and each answers only to its own special call.

U.N. Strong, Courageous
Detroit, June 29 (UPI)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche considers developments in Korea "extremely evidence" that the United Nations has both the strength and courage to meet its most severe challenge to date. The former Palestine mediator and assistant U.N. secretary general called the Korean situation "a crisis of extreme gravity" and said the United Nations Security Council, in approving aid for South Korea, had shown the "firm character and decisive action required to meet the challenge." We must all be grateful for that," Dr. Bunche said.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

The attack on South Korea by North Korean Communists obviously throws into a cocked hat numerous economic calculations. Until we learn whether the "cease fire" order of the United Nations Security Council will stand up it is idle to guess the influences of war should develop and spread.

However, it will be informative to review the economic status of the present time in order to see what conditions are if the Korean war should develop and spread. Probably the toughest situation is "inflation." Without a developing war, as we have discussed in previous articles, there is grave danger of the renewed price advances becoming a run-away, hyper-inflation.

The industrial boom is at an "over-capacity" rate right now. Business and public speculation is pronounced. Now in markets but in goods. While the speculation has not spilled over into the stock market to any great extent thus far, it is recognizable in the rush to buy automobiles, homes, and household goods of all kinds. This type of speculation can be as dangerous as speculation in markets, particularly when so great a proportion of it is being done "on paper" credit and installment basis at present.

So, we find the critical Korean war is an economic position that might have tremendous repercussions.

You can see what could happen. As mentioned above, industry in many lines is at overcapacity right now. Notably in steel, the most essential war product. If we are suddenly called upon to turn out immense quantities of arms, war vehicles and ammunitions, there would not be anywhere near sufficient capacity in industry to keep up with the present burgeoning demands. Automobiles would be in order at once. Steel for automobiles and washing machines would be needed for trucks and tanks. Prices would soon as people compete with one another for goods.

To those who have forgotten that this nation ever experienced a currency inflation we might remark upon the paper-money period of the War Between The States. This is called the "greenback era," you may recall. Greenbacks were issued without gold backing, after 1861, to an amount of $450 millions. This paper money immediately started to decline in value and finally hit a low point of 35 cents on the dollar (in terms of gold). However, because of the growth and development of the country after the war, and the sound fiscal policies of the government, the greenbacks gradually climbed back toward "par" until, in January 1879 when we returned to the gold standard, the greenbacks were again worth a full dollar. Indeed, when people could get gold for their paper dollars they didn't bother to convert as confidence had returned and they Admittedly, the article which borders on the alarmist may suggest to you that an independent war seems inevitable to the Ruminator. I do not wish to imply that, because certainly this writer has no sufficient knowledge or information of forecasts or Russian affairs to even attempt to guess whether or not a serious war will occur. Also, who knows at this writing what power or influence the United Nations may have in coming days or weeks. The whole scope and dreams of the United Nations are tied up in the Korean outbreak and the world will look on hopefully to see the outcome. To be sure, we should like to fear the worst and hope for the best.

Editor, The Freeman:
In view of the letter submitted by Mr. Glenn Webster to The Freeman about a "Dog's Life," I wish to state right here that I do not condone such action as shooting a dog or killing him by any other violent method.

I love dogs but I say in the same breath that street running dogs are a menace and public nuisance. The way they run things in the way of lawns, flowers and shrubs is a downright shame. They gang up two, three and more at a time and then move all to town, dumping garbage cans and what have you.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE.

The Black Lace Negligee
The other day I got the following letter from a lady who is convalescing in a Montreal hospital:

Dear Mr. Rose:

Three weeks ago I was operated on for a leg infection, and since then I've been taking it easy, a little too sick to leave the hospital and a little too well to keep from having the blues. Consequently, I've been something of a busybody, wandering around rooms and corridors and passing the time of day with other patients. During my wheelchair travels I happened to come across a story which you might like to use in your column.

It has to do with a black lace negligee that I got for Christmas a couple of years ago—one of those lovely bits of peek-a-boo that every woman adores. Unfortunately, however, I'm more the pajama type, so ever since I got it's been packed away in a bureau drawer.

When I was rushed to the hospital last month, my sister stuffed everything that looked like bed-apparel into a valise and brought it around to my room, and sure enough, on top was the negligee. And sure enough again, it went right back into a bureau, this time a white one.

Recently, however, I finally got

I had a talk with the nurse, and with the permission of the doctor we brushed back Mrs. Benoise's hair and put some makeup on her face, and for a final touch I got out my black lace negligee and slit it up the back so we could put it on her without having to move her around. And I'm not exaggerating when I say that when the dying woman saw herself in a mirror she looked herself for the first time in weeks.

Of course, we all shuddered when her husband was wheeled in his head bandaged and most of his body in a cast. And a couple of hours later the doctor came and told me that Mrs. Benoise wanted to thank me for the use of the negligee. Well, she could hardly talk, she was that excited. Her husband, it seemed, had complimented her on how lovely she looked and told her that as soon as he got out of the hospital he was going to buy her a dozen negligees like the one she was wearing. And just before they wheeled him out he prodded her that he would be around the next morning and asked her to please wear the negligee again.

He didn't get back, however, because that night Mrs. Benoise died, and everything considered I guess it was just as well.

Yesterday, when the doctor came to see me, we got to talking about Mrs. Benoise.

"I'm glad I finally found some use for that silly negligee," I said. "At least Mr. Benoise will always remember how pretty his wife looked the last time he saw her."

"I hate to disappoint you," the doctor said, "but Mr. Benoise couldn't see her. He lost his sight in that ear smash-up, and before I brought him into his wife's room I carefully briefed him on her make-up and how she looked in your negligee."

Anyhow, that's the way it happened, Mr. Rose, and perhaps if you shuffle the facts around a bit it might make a story.

Sincerely,

CHARLOTTE FERGUSON

Colonials Win in 10th, 3-2; Cut Chiefs' Lead to Five Games

Clubs Play Tonight At Po'keepsie Field

Maybe it was only poetic justice that it took a tenth inning point, opened the Kingston tenth with a solid double to the fence in right center. Complete frustration started setting in when Ralph Matzer lifted to left and Joe Sposa tapped to the box.

Dick Blow, Bridgeport relief finger, might have hung up Gerhard between second and third on Sposa's tap but he chose to make the play at first for the second out. That was a big break for Kingston. Nick Pepio rammed a fairly solid shot to second baseman DeBish who fumbled it and then threw to first a shade of a second too late. That was it.

Bridgeport ruined McKeever's no-hitter under sickening circumstances. Al Vendetta led off in the seventh with an infield hit that barely eluded the clutches of Ralph Matzer at second. Frank Neri and Vinnie Pankovits both beat out bunt attempts to load the sacks with nobody out.

Forces in Tying Run

When McKeever got Stefanik to pop to Joe Sposa and fanned Ed Lenygel, the starting pitcher, he seemed to be safely out of the woods. But on a 3-2 pitch he walked Al Bentley to force in the tying run.

The Bees struck quickly for a 2-1 lead in the eighth on Jim Wallace's single, a sacrifice and a double by Al Vendetta. Further damage was averted in that inning when Sposa and McKeever collaborated in a dazzling play at first to snuff out Stefanik for the third out.

A walk with the bases loaded forced in Ralph Matzer with Kingston's first run in the fourth. Harvey Porter's replacement at second had singled and raced to third on Lenygel's wild throw on a bunt.

Nick Pepio walked with one out in the ninth and Porter delivered him with a triple to right center. The Bees resorted to the percentage book at this point and walked Joaquin Walther and Rudy Karson to load the sacks.

The strategy paid off as Frank Merola jammed into a force play and Sam Picentino fanned.

Kunze, who is a lot better pitcher than the records indicate, yielded a two-out single in the tenth and then struck out Stefanik to end the inning.

COLONIAL CAPERS: Each team knocked off two double plays. . . . Ed Lenygel, Bridgeport starter, was a southpaw whose soft stuff produced a series of "line drive" outs. . . . Manager Emil Gall benched Harvey Porter and Charlie Aspronomer and started Matzer at second and Pepio at third. . . . Eventually both got into the lineup and Porter's triple made him Mr. Big of the night. . . . Pepio drew three straight walks after popping to first in the third. . . . Placentino stroked a ringing double to open the second but the locals couldn't bring him across. Then with two chances to break up the game in the eighth and ninth, Sam fanned. . . . The game was long. Gall's changes will be in the Bridge City tonight for a bit's engagement due to start at 8:30. The two clubs return to municipal stadium for a single game series Friday night at 9:15 o'clock. The Torrington Braves will be in town for a twin-tight double-header Saturday.

Jones Dairy Drubs Wiltwycks; Fisher Gets Victory in Relief

11 Errors Charged In Loose Contest

Jones Dairy, current pace-setters in the City Baseball League, staggered through to a 10 to 5 victory over Wiltwyck Motors in Wednesday night's brawl at the Athletic Field despite a sloppy defense which came up with seven errors.

The triumph gave the Dairymen a full game lead over Chez Emile and Boulevard Gulf.

Veteran Tommy Fisher came in relief for starter Ted Schwamb and received credit for the win. Ferrell McFerrath was the loser.

A total of 11 errors were charged to both clubs during the hectic struggle.

The Motormen hopped on Schwamb for five runs during the brief stay on the mound. The K. H. S. hurler only disposed of two hits during his three-inning stint but added his own downfall with three walks and two hit batsmen.

Trailing 5 to 2, the league leaders exploded for five big hits in the fourth and took the lead which they never relinquished. A pair of walks, two errors, a stolen base and singles by George Brinkman, Charlie Noff and George Zadany did the damage. Zadany came through with a hit while batting for Schwamb.

The winners pushed over another run in the fifth on a long double by Jack "Patsy" Schatzel and Fisher's single. The Dairymen sent a couple of "insurance" markers across in the sixth on Zadany's double, an outfield hoist, Brinkman's walk, Cardine's two-ply clout and an error.

Maffles Raps Homer

Tommy Maffles got the Dairymen off running in the opening frame when he propelled a drive over the left field fence with Beardi on base. The lead was short-lived, however, as the Motormen got to Schwamb for a pair of runs in the first, two more in the second and a single tally in the third.

Chez Emile will send Lefty "Bud" Swartout to the hill tonight in hopes of getting back that half a game which they slipped back last night while the Dairymen were winning. Morgan's Rest, still looking for victory No. 1 of the season, will start Hank Levy.

What happened to the big pros in the P.G.A. tournament over the week-end merely points up the fact that throughout the land there are many obscure golfers (nationally that is) who can toss par around and come through when the chips are down. The P.G.A. proved, too, that it's getting later than he thinks—for Jimmy Demaret, the Laughing Boy, who has yet to giggle his way to a major golf crown.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Lou Smith's pairing with Dr. Rodney Ball, of Saugerties, President's Cup winner, in the Twinashill Calcutta was just an act of Providence. It's breezed around the club house. . . . Woodstock Gulf Club is a picturesque layout, particularly at twilight with its beautiful mountain background. And you meet nice people like Warren Townley, Eddie Lane and Tony DeLillo up there. . . . Add Fearsome Foursome: Dr. Ball, Dr. Robert McCaig, Fubbin Russell and Ernie Schirmer. . . . Once in a while, Joe Garland, the George Marshall of Saugerties, crashes the foursome as a substitute. . . . John Van Gonsse's hook is giving him trouble these days but he should be in top shape for the Calcutta competition. . . . Bob Todd, of Northampton, Mass., the "baby" of the traveling pro circuit, winds up at the tee just like J. Watson Bailey of Wiltwyck.

Whatever happened to our high school golf wizards in the Inter-sectional tournament?

Just by way of proving that bankers sometimes live dangerously, Ed Remmert offered to take John Van Gonsse as a partner and give Alex Gerlak and writer seven strokes on the Dutchess Country Club course. . . . Van Gonsse would rather forget about it, but Ed insists the match will be played.

Memo to Gerlak: Dear Alex: Fifteen minutes after we bought a pair of socks from you, we got a hole-in-one.

A Wiltwyck Club member who prefers to remain anonymous tells this story about one of the club members who happens to be a liquor salesman. It could be either Bill Schaffrich or Isaac Trowbridge.

One or the other was travelling through the beautiful countryside when he spotted an impressive looking building. He walked in, "I'd like to see your bar and see what you may be needing."

"But we have no bar," replied the superintendent of the building. "No bar?" echoed the salesman, unbelieving.

"Well, all I have to say," commented the puzzled salesman, "is that this is a hell of a country club."

The mystery was solved when the salesman eventually discovered that the golf club was just down the road a bit from the Home for the Aged.

Overheard at the barristers' annual outing: "I see Abe Streffer is playing with three left-handers," observed a lawyer. "Could be very significant," replied a judge.

• Of Men and Mice:

Wonder if Art Davis is still trying to lure "Bo" Gill, Newburgh champ, to Wiltwyck for a duel this summer. . . . Gill has been making excuses for two years. . . . Ben Cohen and Herm Gottfried a steady twosome at the Hurley avenue links. . . . Clarence "Dibby" Ruhle is generally conceded to be the longest driver in the city, but we'd like to see him in a test against Lew Boice. . . . It takes about two seconds for the average golfer to complete a stroke. Therefore the 90-shooter spends about three minutes shooting in a round. The rest of the two hours, 57 minutes is spent in "stalling" putts in the pro manner.

Park Supervisors Taught Skills by National Expert

Techniques providing an educational background for recreational activities were demonstrated at a special class, Wednesday, at the downtown Recreational Center, attended by local playground supervisors.

Frank A. Staples, director of the National Recreational Association Arts and Crafts Service, was the instructor.

During the training institute, the playground directors observed many techniques in bookbinding, blue-printing, plastic modeling and other skills.

The program was received with enthusiasm and it was the consensus that the children of the parks will benefit greatly through the knowledge the supervisors acquired.

Plans are being formulated for extending the training course over a longer period in future years.

Practical results of the course given by Mr. Staples are expected to be reflected in park exhibitions held throughout the summer.

30 Auto Deaths Predicted

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (UPI)—At least 30 New York state residents are marked for death in Fourth-of-July week-end automobile accidents. That's the estimate by Commissioner Clifford J. Havana, Cuba, June 29 (UPI)—Prosecutors in a case charging insubordination of $175,000 in government funds have asked a court to indict Ramon Grau San Martin, who was president from 1944 to 1948.

A court earlier this week indicted five former treasury officials of misappropriating $95,000. Police so far have not announced any arrests.

Argentine Approves

Buenos Aires, Argentina, June 29 (UPI)—Argentina has ratified a western hemisphere pact of reciprocal assistance, adopted in 1947 at Rio de Janeiro. The Chamber of Deputies vote yesterday was regarded as a vote of solidarity for the United States action in Korea. Ambassador Stanton Griffis delivered President Truman's message on U. S. aid to Korea to the foreign office in the morning. Late in the afternoon, President Peron asked the chamber to complete the ratification started by the Senate last year. The vote was 88-9, with 10 abstaining.

Want Action on Reds

Washington, June 29 (UPI)—

Today in Washington

President Need Not Wait Congress Approval On Action to Protect U. S. Citizens

By DAVID

Washington, June 29—President Truman acted entirely within his constitutional right in ordering American armed forces to go to the assistance of invaded Korea.

There are plenty of precedents for instantaneous action by the President of the United States without the formal consent of Congress when an emergency arises threatening the security of American citizens.

The closest parallel occurred on April 21, 1914 when, in the midst of a civil war in Mexico, President Wilson ordered American naval forces to capture the port of Vera Cruz, Mexico, in order to prevent landing of arms which might be used against American lives and property. The fighting took place all of that day. The next day—April 22, 1914—the Congress passed a resolution ratifying the action of the chief executive in ordering combat operations outside of the territory of the United States.

It is true that the President had asked for the power on April 20 before the seizure of Vera Cruz occurred, but Congress did not act until after the warfare had begun.

Again and again in dozens of instances in the Caribbean area and also in Peking, China, in the "Boxer" rebellion of 1900 Presidents have ordered American armed forces to engage in shooting in order to protect American citizens and their property, and this has long been recognized in international law books as executive prerogative without the need of congressional approval.

The constitution of the United States, by plain implication, approves emergency action by the President without the consent of Congress. Article I says in part:

"No state shall, without the consent of Congress . . . engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay."

Clearly the constitution by inference would permit the same authority to be exercised in behalf of all 48 states of the union which is so explicitly delegated to a single state. The American armed forces in Japan, for example, are carrying out a specific task with the full authority of Congress. This has been affirmed several times by Congress in appropriation laws since V-J Day as a post-war occupation duty of the highest importance.

To say that the President of the United States, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, may not take instant action to protect such forces by thwarting a possible aggressor who might attack them is to live in the 19th Century instead of in the atomic age. The best expression of the doctrine was given by the late President Roosevelt in an address to a joint session of Congress on May 16, 1940, just six days after Hitler invaded Belgium and the Netherlands.

The first New Year's day visitor in an English home traditionally enters by the front door and leaves by the back door.

tion on a "Communist control" bill before Congress adjourns. They claimed wide public support. The issue was one of many that might upset plans of Senate Democratic Leader Lucius of Illinois and other congressional leaders to wind up law-making July 31. A strategy session late yesterday of the Senate Foreign Policy Committee produced the new one, apparently timed to the U. S. ultimatum against communism in the Far Pacific.

Judgments in Six Actions in Auto Case Are Upheld

The Appellate Division has upheld the judgments of a Supreme Court jury in six actions which resulted from a fatal automobile accident near Kingston on October 12, 1947.

The accident, which occurred at 5:30 a. m. on Route 9W two miles south of Kingston, involved an automobile driven by Francis Hanson, owned by his father, Gerald Hanson and another automobile driven by Albert J. Bailey, Jr., and owned by the Braddock Automatic Music Corporation. Riding in the Hanson car were William J. Dougherty, who was killed, and George G. Miller. Miller and Hanson were both injured. In the car driven by Bailey, Jr., was riding his father, Albert J. Bailey, Sr. Both driver and passenger were injured.

Six actions arising from the collision came to trial in Supreme Court in Ulster County in October, 1949. The jury made the following awards, which were appealed and now have been affirmed by the Appellate Division:

1. The estate of William J. Dougherty was awarded $25,000 for death, $2,400 for pain and suffering, and costs.

2. George G. Miller was awarded $1,500 and costs.

3. Gerald Hanson was awarded $350 damages to his automobile and costs.

4. Francis Hanson was awarded $30,000 for injuries and costs.

5. Albert J. Bailey, Sr., was awarded $3,000 and costs.

6. A "no cause of action" verdict was rendered in the suit brought by Albert Bailey, Jr., and the Braddock Corporation against Gerald and Francis Hanson.

The appeals were brought by the Braddock Corporation and Bailey, Jr. from the verdicts rendered against them in favor of Dougherty, Miller, the Hansons and Bailey, Sr., and an appeal from the judgment in favor of the defendants Hanson in the "no cause of action" verdict.

One of the grounds for appeal was the evidence showed that Hanson had been drinking and that the justice did not properly charge the jury concerning the effect of the driver's drinking on the rights of the party.

The Appellate Division's opinion in which the five justices present concurred, stated, "The appellants' requests to charge concerning the effect of the driver's drinking upon the rights of the party were technically correct. However, the weight of evidence indicates that intoxication played no part in this unfortunate accident, hence any error in refusing to grant the request is immaterial and may be disregarded."

The Appellate Division decision also states, "There was evidence from which the jury could properly find that the Braddock Corporation automobile was being driven on the wrong side of the road. The verdicts were not against the weight of evidence. The jury was properly charged... The damages awarded in the death action were neither excessive nor based on incompetent proof."

McCarthy Won't Quit

Washington, June 29 (UPI)—The tumultuous Communist inquiry which a Senate committee has been conducting since last March appeared headed today for an early end. There was no sign, however, of any "cease fire" intentions on the part of Republican Senator McCarthy, whose charges that the State Department harbors Communists and fellow travelers touched off the investigation. On the contrary, the Wisconsin senator said a quick wind-up of the Democratic-controlled committee investigation would serve only to emphasize what he termed a need for a new inquiry. Calling the current one a "whitewash operation," McCarthy said that in any event he plans to continue his own private Communist probe.

Spurred

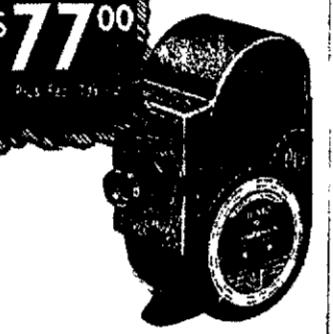

Justice concurring were Sidney F. Foster, presiding, Christopher J. Hoffmann, Martin W. Deyo, Francis Bergan and William H. Coon.

Attorneys in the case were Cashin and Ewir for the Hansons, Abraham Streder for William Dougherty estate, Carter and Conroy for Bailey, Jr., and the Braddock Corporation, and Peter J. George for Bailey, Jr., and the Braddock Corporation, as appellants, and Samuel G. Tabnor for Bailey, Sr.

Planes Are Driven Off

An American base in Southern Japan, June 29 (UPI)—Nine unidentified planes found on the radar sent this base into a 45 minute blackout tonight. Five U. S. Air Force planes took to the air but the unidentified aircraft disappeared before the American planes could make contact. It was a beautiful moonlight night, ideal for bombing. Kokura, on the northwest coast of Kyushu, also was blacked out. The base closed at 9:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. EST).
